„Motivated Symbol“

Cross

Inspiration defines the shape.

Faith accompanies us, is in and around us, but is not tangible. I have tried to get hold of it, to give it a shape.

In the precious metal of the chain the cross is fixed, and solidified into a symbol. The chain is partly stiffened into a shape from which the pendant drops. What is in two parts elsewhere, is now a unit.

This cross is not dogmatically set in stone, it remains open, free and flexible. The wearer has virtually slipped into the symbolic pendant, which should not confine the wearer, but should motivate him/her.
