For some people love and a loving relationship are more important than religious faith and become the reason to live, a language spoken in comfortable silence. Love enters gently into one's heart, unannounced, and changes lives forever. Love is timeless. It brings new dimensions to life that make everything seem worthwhile. And when there is hope, there is faith, when there is faith, there is love. For the symbol of love people often exchange jewellery, flowers or love letters. I made a bracelet as the symbol of my love using the letters from my loved one. For the form of my bracelet, I was inspired by Viburnum sargentii for. sterile which is known as a very strong plant that grows very well even in barren soil. Even if we cut off one of the branches and plant this, it will soon start to root and bloom. The vitality of this flower has a likeness to a loving relationship which continues to grow under a lot of difficult and harsh circumstances.
